

Striving to Take Advantage of the Difference Between Perceived and Real Risk in the Market.

The Princeton Premium Fund seeks to use risk models in the selling of market hedges in the form of S&P 500 put options to collect premium. The strategy utilizes option contracts to attempt to generate a weekly profit. By utilizing historical market data, along with various current risk data points, the Fund seeks to take advantage of the difference between perceived and real risk in financial markets on a weekly basis.

Mutual funds involve risk, including possible loss of principal.

There is a risk that issuers and counterparties will not make payments on securities and other investments held by the Fund, resulting in losses to the Fund. The value of the Fund's investments in fixed income securities will fluctuate with changes in interest rates. Options involve risks possibly greater than the risks associated with investing directly in securities. There is no guarantee that the adviser's options strategy will be effective or that suitable transactions will be available.

The Fund uses options to increase the Fund's combined long and short exposure which creates leverage, which can magnify the Fund's potential for gain or loss. The Fund expects its premium collection options strategy to be market neutral and therefore the Fund does not expect to participate fully in positive markets which may not generate positive returns as intended. Liquidity risk may prevent the Fund from selling illiquid securities at an advantageous time or price, or possibly requiring the Fund to dispose of other investments at unfavorable times or prices in order to satisfy its obligations.

As a non-diversified fund, the Fund may invest more than 5% of its total assets in the securities of one or more issuers. Dramatic or abrupt volatility within the market would negatively impact the Fund's premium collection options strategy. The Fund's return may not match the return of the S&P 500 Index because it is not investing the equity securities that comprise such index. The Fund incurs operating expenses not applicable to the Index, and incurs costs in buying and selling securities.

The Fund is a new mutual fund and prior to its recent commencement of operations had no history of operations for investors to evaluate. The adviser's judgment about the long-term returns the Fund may generate through its principal investment strategies may prove to be incorrect and may not produce the desired results. The Fund's principal investment strategies may not achieve their intended results and each strategy could negatively impact the Fund.

Definitions:

A Call or Put Option is an agreement that gives an investor the right, but not the obligation, to buy or sell (respectively) a stock, bond, commodity or other instrument at a specified price within a specific time period. The Strike Price of an option refers to the price at which a call or put option can be exercised (put into effect). The Expiration Date of an option refers to the last day that the option is valid. The S&P 500 Index is a capitalization-weighted index of 500 stocks. The index is designed to measure performance of the broad domestic economy through changes in the aggregate market value of 500 stocks representing all major industries. The Total Return version of the index is shown. The Bloomberg Barclays US Aggregate Bond Index, a broad-based flagship benchmark that measures the investment grade, US dollar-denominated, fixed-rate taxable bond market. Standard Deviation measures the average deviations of a return series from its mean. Sharpe Ratio is a statistical measure that uses standard deviation and excess return over a risk-free rate of return to determine reward per unit of risk. A higher Sharpe ratio implies a better historical risk-adjusted performance. The Sharpe ratio has been calculated using the Citi 3-month Treasury Bill Index for the risk-free rate of return. The Up Capture Ratio is a measure of the manager's performance in up markets relative to the market itself. The Down Capture Ratio is a measure of the manager's performance in down markets relative to the market itself. R<sup>2</sup> is a statistical measure that represents the proportion of the variance for a dependent variable that's explained by an independent variable or variables in a regression model. Beta is a measure of the volatility—or systematic risk—of a security or portfolio compared to the market as a whole. Maximum Drawdown is the maximum observed loss from a peak to a trough of a portfolio, before a new peak is attained.

Important Information

Princeton Fund Advisors, LLC, Bloomberg, Hedgeweek Americas and Northern Lights Distributors, LLC are not affiliated. The Hedgeweek Americas Awards follow a clear and transparent process. For the fund manager categories, the pre-selected three fund shortlists are based on data provided by Bloomberg, analyzing annualized performance by Americas-based funds in their respective categories over a 12-month period from June 1, 2020 to May 31, 2021. The Liquid Alternative manager award categories include North American and South American-based single-manager funds employing a hedge-fund-like strategy outside of the traditional hedge fund structure with a track record of more than 3 years and over $50 million in AUM. Among the three shortlisted funds in each category, voting for the eventual winners is then conducted via an extensive online poll of the Hedgeweek readership carried out over a period of several weeks. In total there were 41,227 votes cast, with 44% of those coming from Managers, 20% Investors and 36% from Service Providers. There was no cost to the Princeton Premium Fund or Princeton Fund Advisors, LLC for winning this award. For the full methodology relating to all the fund manager categories and other information please visit <https://awards.hedgeweek.com/americas-awards-2021>. Diversification does not ensure a profit or guarantee against loss. Investing involves risk, including loss of principal. Past performance does not guarantee future results.
